Will Buy Land.

Instead of relying upon grants for rights of way over public streets in this city and Ogden, strips of land will be bought from private owners. In this way, commencing from the Warm Springs, a right of way will be bought from land owners to the northern limits of the city, and the same method ill be pursued in Ogden to a connection with the street car system of that city. It is intended to transfer traffic with the street car lines of both cities,

Mr. Gibbs will at once commence to un surveys over the right of way contracted for and an electric engineer will be out here from the east soon, he said, to arrange for construction. The Salt Lake engineer is assured by his eastern associates that grading will be in progress before Aug. 1. Already proposals have been obtained for ties, rails and equipment. The cars will be farge and modern and capable of making the trip run between Salt Lake and Ogden in eighty minutes. Office headquarters will be leased as soon as Mr. Gibbs can secure the rooms desired.

Vernal, June 10.—Timber Inspector Angille of the forest reserve division of the interior department came in on Sunday's stage and left yesterday for the mountains, where he will make a thorough study of the timber question that has been agitating the settlers since the setting apart of the forest reserve. Mr. Angille will spend several days on this end of the Unitah reserve and thoroughly acquaint himself with not only the timber supply but with conditions surrounding the cutting and using of timber in the past, present and feture.

There has been considerable trouble and inconvenience over an order issued in effect that the owners of sawmills that have been operating within the reserve limits must pay back stumpage for timber cut in past seasons, and the mills have been held idle during a settlement of this question. While Mr. Angille does not care to speak for publication, he has by his actions created the impression that the inspection will make matters much easier for the settlers.

Leo Camp, a son of R. C. Camp, city justice of Vernal, is down with the smallpox. This is about the only new case in Vernal for several weeks.

Interest in politics is beginning to grow apace, and candidates are being discussed. The Republicans are alarmed over the fact that the range question between the cattlemen and sheepmen threatens to be the main issue in the coming campaign. As the sheepmen have been the backbone of the party in this section, it will readily be seen that it will very materially affect the vote, although the Republican leaders are trying to explain that the range question is not a political issue. Local candidates are now being discussed in a desultory way, and the campaign may be said to have fairly started. The Democrats are confident of winning the coming election by an increased majority over the 1900 election. There are harmonizing influences at work that bid fair to put the party in better fighting trim than for years.

Two Boys Found Guilty of Stealing Copper Boilers and Brass Kettles.

Copper Boilers and Brass Kettles.

Mt. Pleasant, June 12.—For some time past a number of families in the east part of town have been missing boilers and kettles. The notice of it has kept coming to the marshal, but he could find no clue until yesterday, when he caught some boys in the act of shipping a lot of brass and copper. They were immediately arrested and taken before Justice Nielsen. Jacob Neff and Joseph Olsen pleaded guilty, while Ephraim Hansen insisted that he had acted as buyer only not knowing the goods were stolen, and was let go. Neff was sentenced to serve five days in the city jail, while Olsen was released, as it is believed he is not responsible for many of his acts and is under medical treatment.

A suit was instituted here yesterday by M. F. S. Ney against Andrew Nielsen, justice of the peace and watermaster of North creek, for tearing down the former's wire fence, which enclosed the creek where it runs through his farm. The case will be fought to a fininsh, as both parties seem very vindictive.

The question of moving the telephone and electric light poles is causing considerable aglitation among the citizens of Lehi. A petition with about six feet of names on it was presented to the city council last evening, asking them to request the telephone and power companies to remove their poles from the center of Main and First East streets to near the sidewalks. The request will be presented to the companies interested. In the meantime, a counter petition, asking that the poles remain as at present, is being circulated. The two companies interested propose erecting a line of painted poles fifty feet high on these two streets and using the poles conjointly.
